Dear [Company] hiring team,

Automation is how I think. I’ve shipped self-running systems on my own: a job feed that refreshes itself from a handful of sources every few hours, admin dashboards that pull data from other tools with nobody touching them, and an AI content pipeline that runs on its own inside a live SaaS.

My stack is TypeScript, Next.js, and Convex, with clean APIs and real-time data underneath. I design the system, build it, document it as I go, and test it before it ships.

For [Company]’s [Role], I’d start by mapping the steps your team still does by hand. Then I’d turn the ones that repeat into agents that run without anyone watching them. That’s the part I actually enjoy.

Happy to walk you through what I’ve already built.

Best,

Drey (Andre Thomas)
